WHITE HAVEN—With an official flip of a silver-colored spade and a dusty blast of dynamite, ground was broken for the new $28,000,000 Bear Creek flood control dam five miles northeast of here yesterday morning.

The dam will be the largest earth-fill reservoir east of the Mississippi River when it's finished. But that will take an estimated 7,330,000 man-hours or about five and a quarter years.

Groundbreaking took place on a steep, isolated hill overlooking the dam's proposed center line and the Lehigh River which flows far below. The dam will rise 234 above the river bed; will be 3,000 feet long.

Main speaker at the official ceremony was Maj. Gen. Charles G. Holle, deputy chief of engineers for construction in the U. S. Army. Gen. Holle started off by congratulating Alvin Shumann, Lehigh Valley Flood Control Council president, and the council and State and Federal leaders (Reps. Francis E. Walter and Daniel Flood) for their efforts in getting money for the dam.

Holle noted that public opposition often ruins chances for flood control projects. No such opposition came from residents of the Bear Creek-White Haven region and for this reason the project was finally approved.

Dr. Maurice Goddard, State secretary of forests and waters, told the 100 people assembled for the groundbreaking that the reservoir must be considered a part of a coordinated plan for flood control all along the Lehigh Valley.

Goddard said that the Commonwealth has pledged to support half of the cost of levees at Allentown and Bethlehem. Such levees are absolutely necessary to a complete plan for flood control, he said.

Although the Bear Creek Dam is intended primarily for flood control, Dr. Goddard said, Northeastern Pennsylvania residents should not lose sight of the fact that the dam will provide an excellent recreational area. No flood control project comes into being without full and complete planning, he said.

The reason Bear Creek project was approved by Congress and funds were allocated, he went on, was "because we had the jump on other projects in the Northeast since Bear Creek was already designed."

In his introductory remarks, Shumann told the audience that he was "very sorry" that Rep. Walter could not be present for the ceremony. "So far as I'm concerned, Rep. Walter has done more to make this project possible than any other single man," Shumann said.

Walter was not at the groundbreaking or at the Lehigh Valley Flood Control Council luncheon at Split Rock Lodge following the ceremony. No official explanation was given for his absence. A Council spokesman said he had been invited, however.

Most of those standing near the temporary building used as a speech platform during the ceremony were nearby residents, workers and representatives of newspapers and television stations in the area.

As the "finale," the program had been arranged to include a dynamite blast on the opposite bank of the river. All of the area was deeply shrouded in thick fog. Hoping for a clear, sunny day, those who set up the charge had packed it heavily with powdery cement.

LONDON, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Britain and the Soviet Union pledged today to help outlaw hydrogen-war, stop the world's armament race and work for peace in Palestine.

But a joint communique on conferences of Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist Boss Nikita Khrushchev with Prime Minister Eden showed that any progress they made toward agreements in basic fields was minute.

The communique was signed after the two Russians returned to London from a flying trip to Scotland. Winding up their 10-day visit, they leave for Moscow today.

While virtually no progress was made on East-West issues, the discussions' psychological effect on world tensions seemed likely to be moderately beneficial.

A top-level British diplomat said Eden achieved all he had expected—the benefit of personal contacts, frank talk and slight edging forward by the Russians in some spheres.

German reunification, a major point at issue, was not even mentioned in the four-page, 2,800-word communique. The British issued a special statement of their own vowing to strive for it.

"In view of Her Majesty's government," the British statement said, "the achievement of German reunification has an outstanding place among the problems whose solutions we must strive to promote. Indeed we are solemnly pledged under the Paris agreements of 1955 to pursue that end."

Even before the communique was signed, the Russians disclosed a shift in their disarmament stand.

Prepared

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee meeting here last night Russia is now prepared to discuss abolition of nuclear weapons. He said the Russians may offer amendments to their own proposals, which had made no provision for nuclear weapons.

The British regarded the Soviet switch as at least a move in the right direction.

Both nations formally promised to support the United Nations in its effort to strengthen the peace in Palestine. They called on Israel and the Arab states to take steps themselves to reduce tension in the explosive demarcation line areas.

British diplomats said Russia's Palestine commitments represented a small step forward. They qualified this by saying it was only one step on a long and difficult road. And although Russia announced last week she would support U.N. action in Palestine, the British regard the communique statement as a more binding demonstration of will to help.

Hiss Received Warmly At Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J., April 26 (AP)—Alger Hiss came to the heavily guarded Princeton University campus tonight and delivered his first public speech since his release from prison as a convicted perjurer.

There were no incidents and he was received courteously and with warm applause. At the Yalta conference, Hiss told a student debating society, "we got what we asked for in terms of concessions."

Hiss' invitation to speak before Princeton's Whig-Clio-Sophistic Society stirred angry protests from alumni. And only last night the university's Catholic chaplain had sponsored a talk by a Chicago newspaperman on "The Meaning of Alger Hiss."

Precautions

University authorities, town police and campus guards took elaborate precautions against any disturbance. There was no trouble inside or outside the white-paneled hall where Hiss spoke.

The audience several times was stirred to bursts of applause and laughter as Hiss spoke. At the end he smilingly thanked the students. They were on their feet applauding him as he stepped down from the rostrum.

There were no embarrassing questions asked about his trial and conviction as a man who lied when he denied giving government secrets to a Communist spy ring.

Hiss' speech and his answers during the question period constituted a quiet, almost colorless discussion of foreign policy. He discussed last summer's four-power conference at Geneva.

Question

Reference to the Yalta conference—where he was present as a State Department official—came in answer to a direct question about the conference.

A student questioner referred to it as "the unfortunate settlement at Yalta."

Hiss smiled broadly. He paused, stepped away from the lectern on which he had been leaning, and said, "That is a 'have you stopped beating your wife' question."

There was a roar of laughter and students applauded. Hiss then said, "I don't happen to believe that Yalta was such a pernicious occasion."

During his whole appearance, Hiss appeared relaxed and at ease. Hiss' two central points were:

1. "Disarmament is more practicable now than ever in history." To illustrate this point, he used the Biblical warning, "All they that take the sword shall perish by the sword."

Pennsylvania Turnpike Board Turns Down Two Contracts

HARRISBURG, April 26 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission today announced cancellation of two contracts for more than two million dollars under which nine holes were being filled along the northeastern extension of the toll road.

Famed Actor Succumbs To Hemorrhage

HOLLYWOOD, April 26 (AP)—Edward Arnold, whose booming laugh and acting talent made him a familiar film figure for 25 years died today at his home in nearby Encino.

Death came from a cerebral hemorrhage, said his son-in-law, Dr. William Orlando. The actor's wife Cleo was at his side when he succumbed.

Arnold was active up until the very end of his 49 years in the acting profession. Recently he made a movie in Paris, "The Ambassador's Daughter." Two weeks ago he did a television show and had made plans for other appearances.

The actor was born Guenther Schneider in a New York City tenement Feb. 18, 1890, the son of a furrier. When the boy was 11, his mother died and his father was invalided, dying four years later.

Variety Of Jobs

The East Side boy supported himself with a variety of jobs—as newsboy, engine oiler, upholsterer, bellboy, and butcher's helper. Meanwhile, he went to school at the East Side Settlement House, and that was where his acting career began. He played the role of Lorenzo in a school production of "The Merchant of Venice" and fell in love with acting. In later years, he titled his memoirs, "Lorenzo Comes to Hollywood."

Arnold made his movie debut in 1915, succeeding Francis X. Bushman as star with Essanay Studios. After 40 films, he returned to the stage, appearing in such plays as "The Nervous Wreck," "Whistling in the Dark" and "The Jazz Singer."

Arnold was long identified with civic and philanthropic affairs. He was a cofounder of "I Am An American" day, president of the Screen Actors Guild, and executive vice president of the Permanent Charities Committee. He was long a star of the "Mr. President" series on radio.

County, State Belt Churches Earn Honor

HARRISBURG, April 26 (AP)—A membership increase of over 10 per cent in 19 conference churches was reported today to the 117th annual East Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The Rev. F. H. Fletcher, Shannock, secretary on evangelism, said there were a total of 1,163 accessions and 747 conversions during the past year.

Certificates

Churches awarded "Ten win one" certificates for achieving membership goals included: Palmyra, Paradise, Lockdale, Matamoras, Pen Argyl, Saylorsburg, Ackermanville, Moyers, Bolchis and Dreherstown.

Awaiting his turn to testify was Peter Norton, Pennsylvania State University representative from Huntingdon, Pa.

Soviets Deny Forcing Sailors To Go Home

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—The Soviet U. N. delegation denied today that Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev forced five Russian seamen to give up asylum in the United States and return home. It claimed they went back of "their own free expressed will."

As the categorical denial was issued here, Sen. Weller (R-Idaho) and Jenner (R-Ind) pressed demands in Washington for the expulsion of Sobolev, who has been chief Soviet delegate here since late 1954.

Weller and Jenner insisted every Soviet national connected with the case should be expelled. Jenner specifically named Konstantin Ekimov, a delegation secretary, as a man who should be sent back with Sobolev.

Case Closed

The State Department, however, indicated it considered the case closed with its note yesterday demanding the recall of two low-rank Soviet delegation members, Aleksandr K. Guryanov and Nikolai Turkin. The note also warned Sobolev to stick solely to his U. N. business while in the United States on diplomatic status.

Ruddy-faced Sobolev, 53, is a former U. N. ass. secretary general. His predecessors as chief resident Soviet delegate were Andrei A. Gromyko, Jacob Malik, Valerian Zorin, and the late Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

Sobolev has held many key Soviet assignments. Originally educated as an electrical engineer, he was past 30 before he entered the diplomatic field. In 1936, he was appointed secretary general of the Soviet Foreign Office.

He was a member of Soviet delegations to many wartime and post-war international conferences and in 1946 was appointed an Asst. U. N. secretary general during absence of Trygve Lie. Sobolev returned to the Soviet Foreign Office in 1949 and served briefly as Russian ambassador to Poland before joining the Soviet delegation here.

Conference

The Soviet delegation statement was read to a news conference here by L. M. Zamyatin, counselor of the delegation and Sobolev's chief political aide.

He said all arrangements for the return of the men, who had defected from the Russian tanker Tuzmep was seized by Chinese Nationalists in 1954, were made by a Soviet consular official in Washington.

No Time To Assist Victim Of Robbery

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Two armed men came into Morris Unger's Broadway luggage shop today and robbed him of $200 and his diamond ring. Then they tied Unger up.

The proprietor managed to hobble to the door of his shop and hail a passerby for help.

No Help

"Sorry," said the passerby, glancing at his watch. "I have no time."

Unger struggled back into the shop and was able to knock over the telephone, dial the operator and get the police.

'Missing' Stenographic Records Of Delaware Bridge Commission Back In Official Files

MORRISVILLE, Pa., April 26 (AP)—The "missing" stenographic records of the Delaware River Toll Bridge Commission meetings for the last 10 years have turned up.

Pennsylvania State Treasurer Weldon Heyburn said today a former commission employee informed him he had "personal transcripts" of all the commission meetings up to 1944.

Robert A. Haney, former commission secretary, made that statement in a letter to Heyburn, made public today at Harrisburg.

Last week, commission assistant secretary-treasurer William Johnson said the records were missing.

Report

Heyburn said Haney told him he took his transcripts of the meetings up to 1954 with him when he left the commission. He said he left the transcripts for the last two years at the commission headquarters here because he considered them of current interest to the organization.

The commission operates all Delaware River bridges above Philadelphia, and is composed of members from Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The commission currently is under investigation by both states for alleged extravagant expenditures.

Dwight R. G. Palmer, a New Jersey member of the Commission said Haney would be invited to appear before the group at its next meeting May 17. Palmer said the Haney transcripts have been delivered to the commission headquarters here.

Jordan Most Recent Nation To Join Cease-Fire Line

JERUSALEM, April 26 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold today obtained a cease-fire agreement from Jordan in his quest for peace in the Middle East, informed sources reported.

Barring last minute hitches, the U. N. secretary general appeared nearing success in obtaining pledges for a general armistice observance between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

Hammarskjold beamed as he arrived in Beirut, the Lebanon headquarters, from Amman, capital of Jordan. Lebanon is expected to make a cease-fire pledge in talks tomorrow.

Nothing official was disclosed regarding the secretary general's discussions in Amman.

Source

Well-informed sources said Jordan in addition to a cease-fire is willing to agree that local commanders seek ways of avoiding border incidents, and possibly to increase the number of U. N. truce observers on the border.

Hammarskjold was directed by the Security Council to seek ways of ensuring compliance with the 1949 armistice.

Hammarskjold has received promises from Israel and Egypt to observe an unconditional cease-fire.

Syrian government sources said Syria will not give a written cease-fire pledge unless Hammarskjold obtains a promise from Israel not to divert the Jordan River. Israel has threatened to do this. The Arabs so far have refused to go along with a U. S.-sponsored project for a joint Israeli-Arab development of the Jordan.

Democratic Leaders Drop Farm Plans

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Democratic leaders in the House abandoned late today their plan to press for the equivalent of 90 per cent of parity in new farm relief legislation.

In the face of strong Republican opposition to the plan, Chairman Cookey (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee announced he was dropping it from a two-billion-dollar farm bill he will introduce tomorrow.

Cookey said his bill would include provisions for a soil bank, which President Eisenhower wants, and most of the noncontroversial sections of the farm legislation vetoed by Eisenhower last week.

The abandoned "compensatory payments" plan would have guaranteed farmers a subsidy covering the difference between prevailing government price supports for major crops and 90 per cent of parity.

Cleared

It was cleared by the Democratic leadership in the House last night but Republicans promptly laid down a heavy barrage against it. Rep. Acheson of Illinois, GOP House whip, called it "a desperate effort to delay."

While the Cookey bill will not contain the compensatory payments idea, some Democrats said they still intend to make a floor fight for it.

Gold Unfolds Spy Story

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Harry Gold came out of prison and unfolded today a fiction-rivalling story of 11 years of espionage and betrayal of vital chemical, photographic and atom bomb secrets to Russia.

In a three-hour appearance before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, Gold poured out a tale of intrigue and treachery and, finally, entrapment and a 30-year prison sentence.

The story involved "recognition signals"—a tennis ball, tickets to a boxing match, matching pieces of a boxtop—and furtive meetings on deserted streets, in a zoo or at a cemetery to slip valuable papers to Soviet agents.

Army Halts 'Tunnel' Talks With Soviets

BERLIN, April 26 (AP)—The U.S. Army today rejected talks with the Russians here on their accusations that the Americans dug a spy tunnel into Soviet East Berlin.

The Army informed the Russians that it had reported the case to Washington, possibly raising the cold war episode to a governmental level.

The Russians Monday charged the American military burrowed a 1,650-foot underground passageway from the U.S. sector of the divided city into the Soviet sector and built there an elaborate wire-tapping system.

No Discussion

Without admitting or denying the Soviet charges, the U.S. Army said neither its European headquarters at Heidelberg nor its Berlin command "will discuss the matter further."

In the American reply, Maj. Gen. John F. Uncles, chief of staff of the U.S. Army in Europe, said he considers "further discussions between military commanders here to be unnecessary and undesirable."

The Russians escorted Western newsmen to inspect the air-conditioned tunnel and the intricate wiretapping equipment Monday.

One Soviet officer indicated that among circuits tapped were some connecting Soviet forces in Germany with Moscow.

Publishers Settle Suit Out Of Court

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—A federal antitrust suit against the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. was settled by agreement today with court approval.

The Justice Department had accused the ANPA and five other publishing or advertising associations of conspiring to restrain the business of developing, placing and servicing national advertising.

All the defendants had entered denials.

Consent Decree

Federal Judge John M. Cashion entered a consent decree terminating the action against the ANPA about two hours after the association had concluded its three day 70th annual convention here.

Cashion congratulated both the ANPA and the government for reaching what he called "a very salutary agreement."

The ANPA consented to an order enjoining and restraining it from requiring, requesting or urging its members to engage in advertising practices that would violate the Sherman Antitrust Act.

In the decree, there was no adjudication of any of the facts in the controversy.

House Opens Highway Debate

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The House opened debate today on a new $1½-billion-dollar highway construction program measure with Democrats and Republicans saying it would pass.

Some preliminary scuffling came on a provision allowing the secretary of labor to set wage floors for workers employed on the proposed interstate highway system.

School Authority Grants Contracts To All Low Bidders

Five Sealed Bids Received For Bonds

STROUDSBURG AREA School Authority last night awarded bonds for its school building program to Kidder-Peabody, Philadelphia.

At the same meeting the Authority also awarded contracts for construction of an elementary school and a two-wing addition to the high school to low bidders.

The authority received five sealed bids for its $1,395,000 bond issue. Kidder-Peabody was low with a bid which will cost the Authority only 3.399 percent average interest over the 28 or 29 year period needed to pay off the bonds.

Other bond firms bidding on the issue were: Halsey Stuart at 3.5028 percent; Goldman Sachs and Co. at 3.5127 percent; Bache and Co. at 3.5282 percent and Drexel and Co. at 3.7383 percent. All five firms are from Philadelphia.

Legal Counsel

In awarding contracts for construction, the Authority was informed by its legal counsel that, under school law, it is required to give the contract to the "lowest responsible bidder" in each case. This reminder was made by Arlington Williams, school board solicitor and local counsel for the Authority and Oscar Hansen, Philadelphia, bond counsel.

At a previous combined meeting of the school board and its authority, a representative of local building trades union labor had notified the groups that union men would not work on the job while non-union men were employed on it. The local union objected to William Donmoyer, Allentown electrical contractor, on the grounds that he was non-union.

Contracts awarded last night were the following: General construction—Paul Edinger, Stroudsburg, combined bid of $774,775 covering construction of the grade school and secondary addition; plumbing and drainage—J. L. Turner and Co., Nanuet, combined bid of $73,100; heating—Joseph A. Rado, Berwick, combined bid of $160,850 for both structures; electrical installation—William A. Donmoyer, Allentown, combined bid of $87,886.

First Pennsylvania Bank and Trust Co., Philadelphia, was named corporate trustee by the Authority, under the trust indenture agreement set up to secure bonds. The Authority agreed to assign the lease rental paid by the school board to the trustee for purposes of paying principal and interest on the bonds and retiring them.

Combined Session

Last night's meeting was a combined session of the Stroud Union School Board and the Authority. Before any of the Authority's actions were taken, the school board passed a resolution approving an "agreement and lease" between itself and the Authority.

The agreement provides that the school district shall pay a yearly rental of $82,350 to the Authority in two installments each year—one due Oct. 1 and the other due April 1. The signed lease agreement also covers maintenance of buildings constructed as part of the present project.

Technically speaking, the bond issue to be sold by Kidder-Peabody for the Authority extends over a 35-year period, through 1991. With bonds paid off and purchased during the time of the agreement, however, the life of the bond issue will cover only about 28 or 29 years, counsel said.

Poconos Welcome New Litterbug Law; Greatest Possible Enforcement Urged

Civic-minded people residing anywhere in the scenic Pocono Mountains should feel a certain measure of relief in Governor Leader signing the new litterbug law which seeks to punish those persons who make a garbage dump of many of our highways.

Any step that will curb the careless practice that causes both sides of our highways to resemble trash heaps should have the full support of everyone, and it is hoped the new law will be given adequate enforcement.

It is true that the penalty for tossing refuse from a motor vehicle subjects the careless one to the minor fine of $25 and costs, or the alternative of 10 days in jail.

It is also true that under the provisions of the new law the driver of the vehicle is equally responsible for tossing out the refuse, whether or not he had any part in it, on the theory that if such a thing occurs the driver has given tacit permission.

Undoubtedly this is going to be a hard law to enforce, what with the millions of motor vehicles roaming the highways and byways of our commonwealth day and night, but if the police will crack down briskly on those who are observed in the act it may well give pause to those others who seem to believe that a public road is a proper dumping ground for old vegetables, empty bottles, cans and similar unpleasant matter.

The Pocono Mountains, together with some other sections of Pennsylvania, are among the most beautiful scenic areas in the entire nation. They should be kept that way.

To the credit of most drivers of both automobiles and trucks, they restrain themselves and their passengers from littering the sides of the road with slightly used food and other disagreeable items.

But there are still a great many careless ones who do not restrain themselves, and these are the characters responsible for the passage of the bill.

Perhaps it cannot be enforced fully, but a start can and should be made. We recommend prompt attention to enforcement on the part of state, county, borough and similar officers of the law.

Regulation Of Welfare-Pension Funds Distasteful But Apparently Necessary

It is a poor commentary on human integrity that a Senate subcommittee should find it necessary to recommend a law to regulate the welfare and pension funds operated for wage earners. But the facts of the situation appear to leave little alternative.

As the Senators reported after a two-year study, there have been instances of "shocking dishonesty and looting" of these funds which are supposed to protect the worker when he is disabled or too old to work.

Although most such funds are administered honestly, others have proved happy hunting grounds for embezzlers and racketeers. Insurance companies as well as dishonest labor union officials have been in on the take.

It would be better, of course, if labor unions and employers had discharged their own responsibility in this field and made Government interference unnecessary. But workers will agree this was not done and that the proposed registration system is for their own protection.

Thievery of this kind is in a class with stealing from a poor box. But unfortunately there are people low enough to do that.

George Sokolsky Says...

Stalin Rose To Power With Aid Of Those Who Are Defiling Him Now That He's Dead

When I read the "Pravda" editorial on the abolition of the cult of the individual, my heart went out to poor old Red Joe, who is being made out to have been a bum by those whom he x a l t e d to power. Joe Stalin is dead and anybody can kick a dead dog around because the dog cannot bite anymore. "Pravda," in this very long article which was designed to brain-wash Communists the world over and did, says of Stalin:

"The cult of the individual and the practice of leadership which developed under its influences in the last period of J. V. Stalin's life and work did much harm. His disregard of the standards of Party life and the principle of collective Party leadership, his frequent personal decisions on questions led to a distortion of the Party principles and Party democracy, violation of revolutionary law, and unjustified repressions."

How true all this is, but when did "Pravda" make the discovery? Only after Stalin died and Beria was killed. As long as Stalin was alive, "Pravda" sang his praises, calling him the greatest philosopher, the greatest military genius, the greatest architect, the greatest educator of all time. Now, he is apparently the biggest bum that ever hit the paradise of the proletariat.

Maybe the "Pravda" article summarizes in more refined language what Khrushchev said in the rough. For instance: "The cult of the individual has also done much harm in ideological work. If we take works on philosophy, political economy, history and other social sciences, written under the influence of the cult of the individual, we see that many of them represent a collection of quotations from works by J. V. Stalin and his glorification. One of the striking manifestations of the cult of the individual is the 'Short Biography' of J. V. Stalin, edited with his direct participation. The 'History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, Bolshevik—Short Course' is also in many respects permeated with the cult of the individual."

There was a time when every Communist and those who wished to be intelligent on the subject, or appear to be, had to read the "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, Bolshevik—Short Course." Millions of copies of it were printed in all languages. Now we are told that it was an utterly lousy book, representing the cult of the individual. Those who live in Communist countries will undoubtedly burn the book, lest they be accused of being Stalinists, which is now a sin. The book-burners will be busy going through their libraries, but I shall keep my copy because those who eventually murder Khrushchev and Bulganin may turn out to be Stalinists and they may go back to this old book. Who can tell?

The "Pravda" editorial makes another point that is worthy of interest:

"... Wartime films and works of literature and arts, for instance, do not yet correctly depict the role of the Communist Party and the Soviet Government, our Army, and people in the great patriotic war who rendered epoch-making services in defending our Homeland and saving all mankind from the imminent threat of fascist enslavement." In our backward, capitalist country, Hollywood has not yet done justice to the American Revolution much less World War II. We do not use motion pictures to wash our brains or to mold our opinions. Hollywood makes them for the purpose of earning money and we look at them usually because we have nothing else to do at that particular moment. It serves to pass the time while we eat popcorn in the dark.

Of course, we do not suffer from the cult of the individual because we believe God is in Heaven and that most men do as well as they can considering all the impediments to perfection. It was Russia that took a simple, pock-marked, short fellow and turned him into an ikon. When I met Stalin in 1917-18, he was an unimportant little guy, way down the line, who seemed pleased if anybody paid attention to him. Two or three years later, he was a big shot and within a decade he was a god on earth. No man could have contrived to do so much without assistance. And his assistants are those who are now making a bum out of him—now that he is dead.

Editor,
Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:
Twice this past week, I heard Mayor Harris over WYPO say he was going to give us figures on the Water Company. All of us are aware of the cost of this company. What we want is the Mayor's signature to the contract so that the proper officials can start to improve our water supply.

All of us experienced the inconvenience of being without water last August and surely no one wants to repeat that experience.

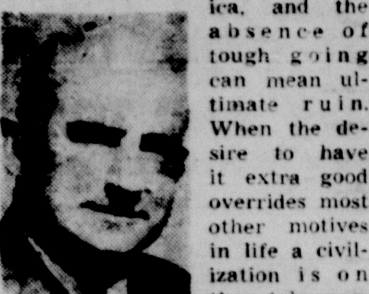

What would it cost to lay the miles of pipes that are in use today? Probably many times the purchasing price of the company. It may be true that money must be spent for repairs, but anyone that owns a new house knows that it, too, needs repairs and painting the same as an older building.

We have a man on the appointed board, who has done more for this community than any other person. He gives steady employment at good wages to the largest group of employees in this area. I believe this man, and the other

America was built by pioneers who rode the covered wagons, broke trails through the wilderness, fought off Indians and made it the hard way. The 1956 covered wagon has to come in four color schemes and the passengers want trailers opened by push-button. If Mister America ran into Indians today he would want his Senator to fight them.

Maestro's Temperament Changeable Like Weather

The artistic temperament has been tried and found wanting—with one exception. Toscanini. The tantrum technique has lately got a bad name, and artists find little comfort from their disappearing audiences who expect—and get—more mature behavior.

Genius, though no less present today than before, has grown up. High dudgeons no longer impress. Furies draw yawns. Flit-throwing has lost its power, its savor. And a lot of color has drained off the concert stage.

Maestro Arturo Toscanini knew nothing of this adult psychology. His genius radiated so powerfully toward musical interpretation that there was no time to cultivate maturity. That was for "stupidos."

In Toscanini—An Intimate Portrait, Samuel Chotzinoff (music critic network official and close friend of the famous conductor) says:

"I often thought that the Maestro's temperament resembled the Salzburg weather, which was kaleidoscopic in its changes. Without warning it would rain, black clouds would hasten through the sky, thunder would roll ominously close. Then suddenly the rain would cease and a bright sun would sop up every bit of moisture, the green landscape would shine pleasantly, as if it had always shone like that. . . . Toscanini presented in a single day transformations without number. He was naive, crafty, simple, complex, kind and ferociously spiteful. The mood inhabited him without forewarning, and evaporated as mysteriously."

Capable of unmatched kindness, Maestro Toscanini once demonstrated this quality in a wretched little Salzburg cafe during his rehearsals for the great music festival. The proprietor was overcome at the honor of so illustrious a patron and fetched a bottle of his finest wine for Toscanini's opinion. Mr. Chotzinoff, who recounts this incident in An Intimate Portrait of the aging conductor, decided to taste the wine first. He found it so horrible "raw and sharp and rancid" that he leaned toward the Maestro and whispered, "Don't touch it. It's terrible."

But the great conductor downed the vile liquid, smiled at the beaming host and pronounced it "buono, buono. . . . Grazie." Later he said, "He was so kind. I could not be rude."

Next week, however, entertaining Liszt's granddaughter at lunch in his villa, he showed that extreme rudeness, too, came easily. Toscanini's face grew dark at the mention of Liszt. "Don't speak to me of him—a charlatan, a poseur—and his music is insincere."

But the standard of Toscanini was single-perfection. For himself as well as for his "moonshiners." The slightest fraction less than perfection caused him such mental anguish that he was swept away in the throes of violent and thunderous reprisal. His shouts "Ignorant—stupid!" followed imprecations and kicks aimed at any inanimate object nearby. But when blue skies suddenly returned, his tender "ciao" to a friend, and a warm embrace announced an "all clear"—for a few minutes.

"The spell that Toscanini cast on everyone around him," continues Mr. Chotzinoff, "was powerful and unflagging. Whether grave or gay, vengeful or beneficent, he magnetized alike players, page boys, servants, executives, friends and even his family. . . . They trembled at his frown and basked in his smile. . . . No one stopped to examine and analyze or question his strange and unprecedented power. He ruled over our hearts and minds. His judgments were accepted like articles of faith."

Sometimes outrageous, sometimes enchanting, Maestro Toscanini was pure emotion, pure music. Magnifica!

Try and Stop Me

Oh, so true words from Bill Vaughan, of the Kansas City Star: "A favorite refuge of politicians, when caught in a crack, is to claim that they were misquoted in the press, and the chances are 10 to one that they were. That is, they were misquoted in that the reporter cleaned up their rhetoric, supplied the missing verbs and made sure that their predicates agreed in some gen'l way with their subjects."

"The nastiest thing a reporter could do to a politician would be to quote him absolutely accurately down to every uh, er, well, you see, that is, and so on."

Pocono Personalities

By John F. Hill

A public servant in two different capacities—one as a judge and the other as director of Monroe County Civil Defense—is one way to describe Fred W. Davis.

His judicial duties encompass two counties—Monroe and Pike, which comprise the 43rd Judicial District. . . . Appointed Judge June 1, 1945, he was elected for a 10-year term beginning in January, 1948. . . .

Judge Davis has headed Civil Defense here since its beginning. . . . Former Gov. James H. Duff appointed him county coordinator May 5, 1950. . . . Title was changed to director May 21, 1951, but duties remained unchanged. . . . His job pays no salary. . . .

Success of Civil Defense in this county is due in great measure to deputies who have worked with Judge Davis in setting up and coordinating multiple functions of the organization. Judge Davis points out. . . . His first deputy was William Nixon. . . . Then came Jack Anderson, whose work was so outstanding that he was advanced to Eastern Area Director. . . .

Present county coordinator is Paul Crown, who functioned during the flood when C. D. was the first county-wide organization to go into action. . . . It continued on an around-the-clock basis for duration of the emergency. . . . Judge Davis is proud not only of the many accomplishments of Civil Defense last Fall, but points to the fine training received by the many individuals who have served in C. D. since it was founded.

Real community service is motivating force behind Civil Defense, says Davis, and county personnel has performed beyond the initial call of duty. . . . Volunteers, he recalls, were trained by experts in fields of first aid, safety, evacuation from bombed buildings, etc., but during the flood they were called upon to serve in an emergency in which they had no training. . . . Their work, Davis adds, was outstanding. . . .

Another community activity in which Judge Davis is keenly interested is the Salvation Army, which he feels does a tremendous job for a group of people sometimes missed by other groups and charities. . . . He has served as chairman of local corps' Advisory Board since 1945. . . .

Judge Davis was born in South Gibson, Susquehanna County; was graduated from Monroe High School and taught school two years in home community. . . . Without benefit of a college degree, he entered Dickinson Law School and received L.L.B. degree in 1922. . . . Earned his way through Dickinson by selling produce from his truck garden in the Summers. . . .

After graduation, he came here and was admitted to Monroe County Bar in 1924. . . . And to Supreme and Superior Courts later. . . . He was a member of General Assembly, 1928-1930; a special deputy attorney general, 1931-1935; district attorney of Monroe County, 1940-1945. . . .

Married to former Jeannette Kistler Pelton, couple lives in East Stroudsburg. . . . His mother, Mrs. Jessie Warren Davis, lives next door in same building and is still active and alert at 80 years. . . .

Judge Davis has taught a large class at East Stroudsburg Methodist Sunday School for 10 years. . . . Also is a member of P.O.S. of A., Elks, Masonic Lodge and Consistory. . . .

His major hobby is gardening, but on occasions he likes to go hunting or fishing for relaxation. . . . In his judicial decisions, he says he bases his opinions on what he thinks is right, by the law, rather than what might be his personal desire in any particular case. . . .

Judge Davis notes we all have different abilities. . . . Those with exceptional talents get along in the world with comparative ease. . . . Those with ordinary abilities, he feels, also can progress if they will be industrious and intellectually honest. . . .

Overcoat Adds Zip To Normal Trip

By Jim Riley

Overcoats that have been lost, stolen or among the missing by one means or another have made interesting reading and reporting down through the years.

But, the latest report on a missing overcoat has brought a lot of laughter to George Graff and many of his friends, especially Walt Fossa, who passed on the story to us.

It seems that our friend George had attended an important meeting of ASCAP, you know—that association formed by "only the outstanding song writers"—and was returning home from New York, when the unexpected began happening Wednesday night.

George departed, that means got off, the train at East Stroudsburg station and hastily walked toward a taxi, which would have normally returned him to Stroudsburg.

But, George put his hand where his overcoat pocket should have been, but—no overcoat.

The former track star dashed rapidly back to the train again and to the car where he had left his overcoat. He grabbed the garment and made his way to the steps, only to find that the train had pulled out of the station and was picking up speed some place near Milford Crossing.

George, always on the alert, stuck with the means of transportation and departed, there's that word again, at Cresco. Still very much on the ball, our traveling friend telephoned Fossa, owner of Pocono Mountains Inn, and asked for transportation back to Stroudsburg.

Never one to miss an opening of this type, Walt not only drove to the station, but insisted that Graff return to PMI, you know that place that's in the sky, and played the role of the perfect host.

Walt graciously drove George back to Stroudsburg and the smiling traveler, complete with overcoat, cigar and package under arm, stepped out of the automobile.

It was a great day for the little guy who has made so many Irishmen happy. He had an extra long ride on the train, still retained his overcoat, had a couple of hearty laughs and was a guest at one of the outstanding hotels in the Pocono Mountains.

True, he will be kidded, but then again George is one guy that can take it and dish it out just as effectively.

On second thought—I wonder if it was all an accident?

And the people hurry, hurry, hurry. Their destination is Everywhere and Nowhere.

Knowledge, Quick Diagnosis Major Roles In Curing Monroe County Resident Of Cancer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of stories on "Seven Steps to Cure" in Monroe County, pointing to the fact that cancer can be cured through early diagnosis and early treatment. The stories of these seven men and women are typical of thousands all over America today. The names of patients have been changed.

By Leonard Randolph
TO THE cured cancer patient, hope becomes something much more than a word.

To most of them it is a way of life. Many times a person who has suffered from a killing disease and has been cured by doctors or surgeons simply takes his new lease on life for granted.

This is seldom true of the cured cancer victim. One major reason for this may be the legends of fear which have been built up about the disease.

Although this fear has taken many lives it has also converted many men and women into active workers spreading the truth about cancer—and the simple fact that it can be cured.

Job
To at least one Monroe County woman the need to tell other people about the new and vital hope for cancer patients has become a part-time job. For purposes of this story we will call her Jean.

Jean was very young five years ago. She had just passed her 19th birthday. On the day she was getting ready to go back to college for her junior year, Jean complained to her mother that the glands in her neck had been swelling.

Jean had never had mumps, a childhood disease which hit nearly everyone in her class in her seventh year in school. Her mother laughingly suggested that this was a heck of a time to come down with the mumps. But she took the symptom seriously and insisted that Jean see the doctor.

A brief examination proved little. Jean's doctor suggested that she go ahead and return to college. But he wanted her to come home again if the swelling continued. He could see nothing wrong. Jean went back to college.

For a day or so, the swelling seemed to go away. Then it came back, worse than before. The girl

Housework Easy Without Naggng Backache

Naggng backache, headache, or muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upset or day to day stress and strain. And folk who eat and drink unwisely sometimes suffer mild bladder irritation...with that restless, uncomfortable feeling.

If you are miserable and worn out because of these discomforts, Don's Pills often help by their pain relieving action, by their soothing effect to ease bladder irritation, and by their mild diuretic action through the kidneys—tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

So if nagging backache makes you feel dragged-out, miserable, with restless, sleepless nights, don't wait. Try Don's Pills. Get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Ask for new, large, economy size and save money. Get Don's Pills today!

made an appointment with a doctor at the school. She told the doctor she felt "terrible," that she had no strength and she thought maybe she ought to start taking more vitamins.

Examination
The doctor nodded, smiled and said he thought maybe a full physical examination might be a good idea before any prescriptions were made out. It was the blood test that showed the way to the key. Jean seemed to be decidedly anemic. Some doctors might have said: You need iron pills. And that would have been the end of that.

The combination of the two symptoms—glandular swelling and anemia—pointed the way toward something else, however. The doctor at the school suggested that Jean make a trip home, talk to her own doctor that weekend and have a thorough series of tests done there.

Analysis of blood and tests of tissue from the neck area, taken at General Hospital of Monroe County, under direction of Dr. M. J. Leitner, the pathologist, showed conclusively that Jean was suffering from "Hodgkins disease," a form of cancer affecting the lymph glands and producing anemia in blood without corresponding increase of the white corpuscles.

Jean was immediately started on a course of x-ray treatment. The treatments extended over a period of weeks. Because the girl had been alert enough to see a doctor as soon as symptoms appeared; because both doctors she saw did not pass those symptoms off lightly, Jean's life was saved.

Indirectly, Jean owed her life to the Monroe County Unit of the American Cancer Society. Talking about her treatment and cure months later, the girl told a cancer worker:

Thought
"Even though we joked about mumps, there was still the thought in my mind that something serious might be wrong. Later on I realized that it was because, as a Girl Scout adviser, I had worked putting Cancer Society literature in envelopes. I saw those 'Seven Danger Signals' the Cancer Society lists at least a thousand times during that week. And, whether I knew it or not at the time, I'm sure they stayed in my mind."

Unusual swelling of glands is one of those seven danger signals. Cancer Society officials believe the list cannot be emphasized too much. Jean's case would seem to add enormous weight to their argument. Without the repetition of the signals no impression would have been made.

For Jean, at least, one danger signal became a sign of hope.

British, Russian Leaders End Talks In Sombre Mood

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—Soviet and British leaders ended their London talks in a somber mood last night. But there were indications both sides will hail the conference as a limited success toward easing world tension.

Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev tramped grimly out of No. 10 Downing St. after a final emergency meeting. Prime Minister Eden, standing behind them, managed a thin smile. His deputy, Richard Butler, was red-faced and looked tense.

A 21-word British communique rang down the curtain on further bargaining. "The final stage of the Anglo-Soviet discussions was completed yesterday afternoon. The results will be announced after the return of the Soviet leaders from the visit to Scotland last night."

Word spread in diplomatic circles that the two-power announcement will report no sweeping achievements, but claim advances in several relatively minor spheres.

But testy public outbursts by Khrushchev midway in the visit had already demonstrated fading chances for any solid agreement in the major fields of difference—the Middle East, German reunification, disarmament and East-West trade.

They made a flying visit to Edinburgh and return in the evening. They plan a news conference tomorrow morning. Then they will go to Portsmouth, board the Soviet cruiser Ordjonikidze and sail for home.

The outbursts by Khrushchev midway in the visit seemed a barometer of Russian disappointment and chagrin that what started out as a major propaganda campaign had fiasco flat.

British experts said they felt the talks had been worthwhile anyway. They feel they were given a chance to assess and measure the trend of Russian policy which has followed Moscow's recent denunciation of Stalin.

Harold Stassen, President Eisenhower's special adviser on disarmament, may have had the most useful discussion of all with the Russians. He talked privately with Khrushchev for two hours at a Soviet diplomatic reception last night. Bulganin was on hand part of the time.

Advance Inspired In Stock Market

NEW YORK, April 26 (U-P)—A great bundle of excellent earnings reports today inspired a more than moderate advance in the stock market.

Gains ran to around 4 points at the outside, and plus signs of 1 to 3 points were quite frequent in key areas of the list. Losses usually were small.

Selective trading was the rule, and most stocks responded quickly to corporate reports on profits and dividends.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks today gained 90 cents at $188.80 with the industrial component up $2.40, railroads up $1.10 at a new high since 1929 of $150.80, and utilities lost 10 cents.

There were 1,190 individual issues traded of which 600 were higher and 337 lower. Sixty-six stocks hit new highs for the year and 40 touched new lows.

Volume

Volume came to 2,650,000 shares as compared with 2,270,000 shares traded in yesterday's irregularly lower market. Bullish elements in Wall Street were cheered by the improvement on expanded volume.

Bethlehem Steel added 1/4 at 162 1/2. Directors declared a dividend of $2 as against $1.50 a year ago.

Shell Oil was up 3/4 at 80 on a gain of 22 per cent in first quarter profits. Monsanto was up 1/4 at 44 on its usual dividend. Panhandle Oil dropped 1/4 at 14 1/2 on its first dividend of the year of 3 per cent stock.

The American Stock Exchange was higher. Corporate bonds were lower. U. S. governments were higher.

Jap Pilot Returns Home

TOKYO, April 26 (U-P)—A Japanese air force pilot of World War Two got home this week after being missing since June 1945.

He is Kiyoshi Minato, who says he fought as a volunteer with the Red North Viet Nam forces in the Indochina war.

Bodies

He brought back with him the bodies of six Japanese he described as casualties who died or were killed in the Indochina fighting.

British Tour Boomerangs On Russia's Leaders

LONDON, April 26 (U-P)—The British tour appears to have boomeranged on Soviet boss Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin.

Suddenly and with seeming recklessness, Khrushchev has thrown into serious doubt all the friendship propaganda with which he had been wooing the Western world. His talk today at Birmingham was tough and angry.

Irritable

Khrushchev apparently feels irritable and much abused in England, particularly after his treatment yesterday at the hands of Oxford students. But more than that, Khrushchev appears to have come to London with a tiger by the tail. He seems to be showing the results of constant British hammering at him for firm commitments, particularly in the Middle East.

Mechanized Post Offices Pick Up Friend In California's Gift To House Of Representatives

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 26 (U-P)—In the old days the government tried to convince the farmer he should mechanize his place.

Today the switch is complete. For here comes Rep. Charles Gubser (R), a Gilroy, Calif., sugar beet, tomato and seed corn farmer, to tell the U. S. Post Office it's high time it became more mechanized.

"The reason I'm so hepped up about this," Gubser said, "is that I'm a farmer by trade. Naturally I love anything mechanical. A farm has to be mechanized nowadays, you know. It's the only way you can make a living."

As a member of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, Gubser went abroad last year chiefly to look into Civil Service problems. Just incidentally did he stop off in the Netherlands.

It was the start of a beautiful and unexpected romance. He became the first U. S. congressman in history to fall in love with the mechanized The Hague Post Office.

"You've never seen anything like it in all your life," Gubser said, "and they're planning a new post office in Rotterdam that will make this one seem like an antique."

Beauty

The beauty of both offices, to Gubser's gadget-loving eyes, is that they're planned for mechanization from the ground up.

One feature: The transpoma. This machine has a keyboard similar to a typewriter, and the mail clerk separates the letters quickly and easily merely by playing the keys.

The Dutch also have a machine that takes letters, turns them over or around so that the stamps are in the right corner, and then cancels them.

"I must have watched it for half an hour," Gubser said admiringly, "on all sorts of mail. Even on old, beat up mail, it worked wonderfully."

Gubser says several countries are far ahead of us at mechanizing their post offices, and he thinks this is a fine time to follow the trend.

The volume of mail is increasing so rapidly, he said, that no clerk would lose his job. And he's sure the machines would save a little money to apply on that eternal postal deficit.

Fortunately, Gubser's seeds have fallen on fertile ground. The Post Office authorities have approved his bill to expand its program.

"I'm just a baling wire farmer myself," Gubser said, "but I can't see why we insist on keeping the post office in the horse and buggy stage."

Let some city slicker miss the point, Gubser said:

"Haven't had a horse on my place in years."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Everybody seems to be looking just a bit haggard—or maybe that's my reflection I see. It has been a week! Election week always is, with everything piling up behind the election like logs behind a log jam and then pounding out all at once when the jam breaks.

But it's been especially hectic this week for everybody: the county Federation meeting, the kitchen tours, and the Progressive Women's Club concert; the annual meeting for the Girl Scouts; the big Regional meeting for Reformed Church women at Pocono Lake; Lehigh Presbytery at East Stroudsburg; Children's Aid at Harrisburg, and hand concert and music festivals to the number of six.

All events which had to be fitted into the regular schedule which was already bursting at the seams. You might think that everybody would be drawing a breath of relief that they'd made it to the weekend and be getting ready to relax. But that's because you haven't looked at the Calendar.

Next week is May and May is the time for annual banquets, annual meetings and closing reports. Nobody is going to relax for a while, and most especially not the editorial staff with a special edition coming up next week on top of everything else.

There's one thing about all this mad rush—nobody has time to worry about the possibilities of war, the international tensions, the crossfire of politics, or the state of the world. It will be enough if we can just keep our little segment of it from blowing up from the pressure.

Kindergarten Next Year Is Goal Of Smithfield PTA

Already looking ahead toward Fall, election of officers for the year 1956-1957 and a proposal for opening a kindergarten this coming September constituted the main business of the Smithfield Parent-Teachers Association when they met Tuesday, April 24 for their final meeting of the year.

The officers for next year—elected unanimously from the slate presented by the nominating committee—will be Harold Hamlen, president; Russell Scott, vice president; Mrs. Ione Middaugh, secretary; and Mrs. Gordon Stettler, treasurer.

The growing demand for a kindergarten at Smithfield was discussed at some length, and following a motion from the floor by Salvatore Pappalardo, PTA members immediately went on record as being in favor of establishing a kindergarten with an accredited teacher to commence as of September, 1956. Until the time when such a pre-school class may be incorporated into the present school buildings, it has been proposed that it be conducted at Worthington Hall in Shawnee-on-Delaware with a car pool to handle transportation of students.

Other items of importance brought forward in the business meeting was an announcement of the 18th Annual Spring Concert to be presented by the Smithfield students at the East Stroudsburg High School auditorium on Friday, May 4 at 8 p.m.

The business meeting was conducted with thanks from Mr. Hamlen to all the officers and chairmen for their work during the past year and announcement of the attendance award won by Mrs. Daisy Cron's second grade.

Watch "Baby" Teeth

Mrs. John Heller, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Dr. David Peiffer, Prefacing his talk on "Dental Growth and Development" with an explanation of the early formation of teeth in the child. Dr. Peiffer revealed that dental follicles begin to develop within the embryo at seven months and that some calcification of both baby and permanent teeth—with the exception of the third molar—has actually started as early as one month after birth. With the use of slides, Dr. Peiffer then made clear to parents the great importance of maintaining the deciduous—or baby—teeth. "Premature loss of the deciduous teeth may cause malocclusion—faulty meshing of the upper and lower teeth—which can result in permanent damage to the teeth in later life," he said.

Describing the baby teeth as "space maintainers," Dr. Peiffer showed how the loss of these teeth can create irregular development and spacing of the permanent teeth with resultant decay. "The loss of one permanent tooth can cause the loss of all," he went on. "This is why decay in the deciduous teeth should be checked and cavities often should be filled at a young age."

"Residual starches and sugars are the primary cause of decay," Dr. Peiffer stated, and concluded his talk with a list of what he considers the basic dental "dos and don'ts" for parents to consider in the care of their children's teeth. 1. Chewing gum and lolly pops—

Orioles Cuff Yank Hurlers In 7-5 Win

BALTIMORE, April 26 (AP)—Baltimore jumped on four New York pitchers for nine hits, including homers by Billy Gardner and Gus Triandos, to whip the Yankees 7-5 today before the smallest crowd of the season here, 6,250.

The Yanks started off with a bang, scoring four runs in the first inning. Hank Bauer drew a walk to open the inning and went to third on Gil McDougald's single. Mickey Mantle grounded out and Yogi Berra drew an intentional pass. After Bill Skowron flied to short center field, Joe Collins tripled into deep center, scoring Bauer, McDougald and Berra. Jerry Lumpe brought Collins home with a single.

Baltimore got one run back in its half of the first on three straight singles by Bobby Adams, Jim Dyck and Dave Philley. The Orioles added one in the second when third baseman Billy Gardner—playing only his second game since he was bought from the New York Giants—homered off the top of the left-field fence at about the 340-foot mark.

The Yanks ran the score to 5-2 in the sixth when Collins doubled and Andy Carey singled him home.

EAST Stroudsburg High's baseball team will attempt to get on the winning trail today when the Cavaliers meet Parkland High in a Lehigh-Northampton League duel at Memorial Stadium. Game time is 4 p.m.

Losers in their only two complete games, including a tough 5-2 setback at the hands of Hellertown last Tuesday, the Cavaliers hope to use the Trojans as a stepping stone to better things.

Head East Stroudsburg coach Jack Kist announced last night that Curt Hickman will start on the mound for the Cavaliers.

Parkland 1-0

Parkland showed fine early season form by turning back Nazareth High 4-3 in its L-N opener last Tuesday. The Blue Eagles of Andy Leh had been one of the favorites to cop the circuit crown before the Trojan loss.

Carrasquel Bats In 7 In Tribe Victory

KANSAS CITY, April 26 (AP)—Chicago Carrasquel made his miserable for Kansas City pitchers today, driving in seven runs while Earllyn Wynn pitched Cleveland to a 14-2, four-hit victory over the Athletics.

Carrasquel hit a bases-loaded home run in the third inning off starter Lou Kretlow. In the fifth he cleaned the sacks with a double off Jack Crimian, who had relieved Kretlow with the bases full. Chico scored three times, coming home on Bobby Avila's home run that also scored Jim Hegan in the ninth.

Wynn notched his second victory in as many starts, Suitcase Simpson hit a game-tying home run to lead off the second inning and singled home Enos Slaughter when he had doubled in the fourth to account for both of the Athletics' runs.

After that, Wynn mowed down the next 15 Athletics.

Toby B Jolts Derby Aides In Upset Win

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 26 (AP)—Kentucky Derby confusion mounted today as Toby B, a non-eligible, showed his mud-churning heels to a healthy half-dozen Derby hopefuls, including Career Boy, in the $33,900 Blue Grass Stakes.

Career Boy, No. 2 in the Derby future book, closed much ground on the winner heading for home but lacked the late speed characterizing most Derby winners.

Reaping Right, a disappointment since his Louisiana Derby triumph, came up fast to take third place, 3 1/4 lengths behind Career Boy. He probably earned a start in the Derby.

Toby B's time for the mile and one-eighth—just an eighth of a mile short of the Derby distance—was 1:51, two full seconds off the track and Blue Grass record of 1:49 established in 1953 by Correspondent, who became second choice in the Derby off that race but finished fifth.

Overlooked

Toby B, overlooked in the betting because owner Gene Van Deren of Cynthia, Ky., didn't like his Derby prospects and didn't nominate him, returned a handsome $42 to win and $5.20 to place. Career Boy, with stablemate Nasomie a favorite combination, paid $2.20 to place. There was no show betting.

Littler Leads 21 In Champions Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 26 (AP)—Golfer Gene Littler picked up where he left off a year ago, shooting a two-under-par 70 in the face of blustery winds to lead 21 rivals through the first round of the $37,500 Tournament of Champions today.

Littler, who tied for the first-day lead here a year ago and went on to win the $10,000 top prize, played the windswept, 7,102-yard Desert Inn course with a two-under-par 34 on the first nine and even-par 36 coming home.

Kuenn Asked To Report To Draft Board

DETROIT, April 26 (AP)—Harvey Kuenn, star shortstop of the Detroit Tigers, was notified today to report to his Milwaukee draft board May 11, presumably for a physical examination.

Kuenn said the notice was sent to his home in West Allis, Wis. "All I know is, my wife called me and said there was a notice to show up May 11," Kuenn said. The 25-year-old Kuenn has twice been classified 4-F because of a high school football injury to his knee.

Last Examination

His last draft board examination was in December, 1952.

Kuenn and his wife are expecting their first child in August. They were married last October.

Novel Race On Video Sunday

LOS ANGELES, April 26 (AP)—Two horses 3,000 miles apart will race each other Sunday afternoon via television. It will be a match race at a mile and one-sixteenth. The horses, yet to be selected, will carry 115 pounds each. Willie Shoemaker will be aboard one of them at Hollywood Park, 10 miles from Los Angeles. The veteran stakes jockey, Eddie Arcaro, will ride the other at Jamaica, 13 miles from New York, on Long Island.

Synchronized

Cameras will be synchronized at the tracks to show the horses racing on one screen divided laterally. George Cassidy, New York starter, will monitor a screen showing both horses in the starting gate and will send them off together. Fred Caposela, a New York announcer, will call the race.

The television show "Wide, Wide World" is staging the race as part of 15 minutes it will devote to thoroughbred racing. The program will be on the air from 4 to 5:30 p.m. EST on the NBC-TV network.

NEWS IS news whether it is on a local level or a national scale. But when an article involves an area figure and is scheduled for the top sports magazine in the United States then it sure is worthy of note here.

Next month in one of the four issues of Sports Illustrated Harry Obitz and his famed "Swing's The Thing" show will get country-wide spread.

This is nothing new for Obitz, the Shawnee Country Club golf professional who was recently named the Philadelphia District's PGA "Golf Pro of the Year." Harry has been making his mark on the national scene for a long time. But it is nice to see everyone in the sports world sharing in his good fortune via a layout in Sports Illustrated.

Allis is not the part of the makeup of Jack Kist so the following report will not be verified by the popular East Stroudsburg High monitor.

Fans who watched the Cavaliers go down to defeat at the hands of Hellertown last Tuesday were thoroughly disgusted with the pitching mound at the Panthers field.

To give an idea of the unfitness of the mound, a Cavalier diarch remarked, "that a B-29 could have taken off without any trouble at all it was that flat."

This according to the Eastburg follower is putting it mildly.

For the life of us we can't figure why officials let this type non-uniformity continue. Especially when a situation like the Hellertown field can be remedied with ease.

Defenders of such a mound could say "what's good for the goose is good for the gander." This may be so, but Eastburg hurlers pitch only once from such a flat hill. Hellertown twirlers toss from it daily.

Even the grippiest of GIs remarked at one time that they got used to sleeping in a foxhole after a long period. Could be the same of Panther moundsmen.

The once 10-game schedule of the Monroe County High School Baseball League is now down to five tilts for each nine.

Early closing of some schools in circuit and shading of expenses have been given as the reason for the slash in the slate.

It seems to us that it is hardly worth while to even set up a league on a five-game basis. One thing is for sure, the boys won't be hampered by the long grind.

In fact we doubt they'll work up a good sweat before the curtain rings down on the campaign.

Every year Howard DeNike comes up with a new star. This year it's a lad by the name of Larry Morgan.

Morgan, in a meet against the Warriors arch-rival West Chester, came out on top in the 100 and 200 yard dashes.

Considering the slowness of the ESSTC track, his efforts Tuesday were all the more interesting.

It wasn't too long ago that the veteran Warrior cinder mentor had a hurdler who just missed making the Olympic team. He was Pat McCarthy, a hurdling phenom when you consider all the obstacles that confronted the red-headed runner.

Monroe County Highs Baseball League Opens Today

Three Games Are Scheduled In Six-Team Schoolboy Loop

MONROE COUNTY High School Baseball League will usher in its 1956 campaign today with three games. Inaugurals are slated for Chestnuthill, Barrett and Tannersville.

Chestnuthill Lineup Minus Vet Players

AN UNDER-CLASSMEN lineup will dot the Chestnuthill High baseball team when the Monroe County League pulls up its 1956 season curtain today.

Aside from the pitchers, only two seniors will be in Coach Otto Mills' starting array when Chestnuthill entertains Tobyhanna Township's nine.

Combined Hurling Mills will use the combined hurling efforts of Don Beck and Larry Eekman in the opener. The stout-hearted pair held Stroudsburg in check last Tuesday as Chestnuthill upset the Mountaineers, 6-2.

The remainder of the Mills lineup will have sophomore Bill Altemose behind the plate; sophomore Earl Everett, first base; either 8th grader Gerald Bond, freshman Allen Barney or Larry Correll at second; Dick Serfass, shortstop; and senior Harold Burkett, rounding out the infield at third.

Outfielders In the outfield will be senior Tom Schultz in left; freshman Ray Fritz in center; and Gene Mack, a junior, in right. Also expected to see action in the outer pasture are Ken Barne and Lee Shupp.

Vet Driver Set To Race At Reading

READING — A third entry from the Midwest, former midwest car sensation Rex Easton, Springfield, Ill., has boosted the field to 30 drivers and cars for the opening USAC big car races of the season Sunday afternoon at the Reading Fairgrounds.

Easton has been entered in the brand new Heinenman Offenhausen from Springfield. It is the 15th Offy entered in the twice-postponed Reading opener.

In his greatest racing season two years ago Easton was the midwest midwest car champion and finished second on the national championship circuit. Beaten out by Jack Turner by a bare 41-point margin for national midwest honors, Easton and the happy consolation of winning the most prize money of 1954.

Last year Easton was fourth in national midwest rankings as well as midwest ratings.

Limited Experience The 43-year-old midwesterner has had limited big car experience, but is regarded as one of the finest drivers ever to come out of the corn country. A machine gunner in the European Theatre during World War II, Easton has been married for 21 years and is father of two daughters, 14 and 7. During the off season he is a tire salesman in Springfield.

Easton has picked a hot spot in which to launch his eastern big car career. Among the other 29 entries are three champions of 1955, including eastern midwest king Len Duncan, Philadelphia, and nine drivers with Indianapolis "500" experience.

Starts 1:30 p.m. The new entry will arouse keen interest among eastern race fans Sunday when the green flag falls on time trials at 1:30 p.m. (EDT).

47th Drake Relays Will Open Today

DES MOINES, April 26 (AP)—The 47th annual Drake Relays open tomorrow and the weather man had a few discouraging words for the festivities.

Occasional light showers and cooler temperatures were the forecast for the first-day show.

Regardless of weather conditions, Drake has gathered one of its better fields for the Olympic year carnival.

See New Records Seven final and eight preliminary events in the college and university divisions are on tap for tomorrow. Drake statisticians figure there are good chances for new records all along the line.

Final Scrimmage UNIVERSITY PARK — Penn State will bring its Spring drills to an official close with an intrasquad football game on Saturday, May 5.

Oxford To Bid For Honors In Penn Meet

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP)—Oxford's bid for three relay titles, Villanova's talented team and the general performance of a host of America's finest track and field performers in this Olympic year highlight the two-day 62nd annual Penn Relays opening here tomorrow.

Jolly Collegians Four self-styled "jolly collegians" from England's Oxford University arrived here last week and announced they would enter and probably win three relay titles. They could too, if past performance is any criteria.

In 3 Events The boys with the bashers (straw hats) to you and traditional dark blue scarves will run in the distance medley, 2 and 4-mile relay events. And not only may they win all three, but, weather permitting, could lower a few carnival and possibly world records in the doing. Aggregate times of the foursome are better than existing world records in all three events.

Riley Testimonial 7:30 P.M. Today

THE VARSITY "E" Club of East Stroudsburg announced last night that the time for the testimonial meeting in honor of Jim Riley, former Daily Record sports editor has been moved up to 7:30 p.m. today.

The affair, slated for the Tom-X Ranch, originally was scheduled for 8 p.m. but in order to get a better turnout "E" officials decided to move up the ceremonies a half hour.

Speakers from all walks of life in East Stroudsburg will heap laurels on Riley who had been covering the sports beat in this area for 10 years prior to being named Record city editor.

Tom Waring, well-known local sports and musical figure, will be the toastmaster.

Logart Is Favored To Defeat Miceli

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—Cuban Isaac Logart, who could easily be mistaken for Kid Gavilan in his prime, was a 2-1 favorite today to beat Joe Miceli tomorrow night.

Third-ranked Logart and ninth-ranked Miceli meet in a scheduled 10-round welterweight fight in the County War Memorial. The bout will be nationally televised and broadcast at 10 p.m. NBC.

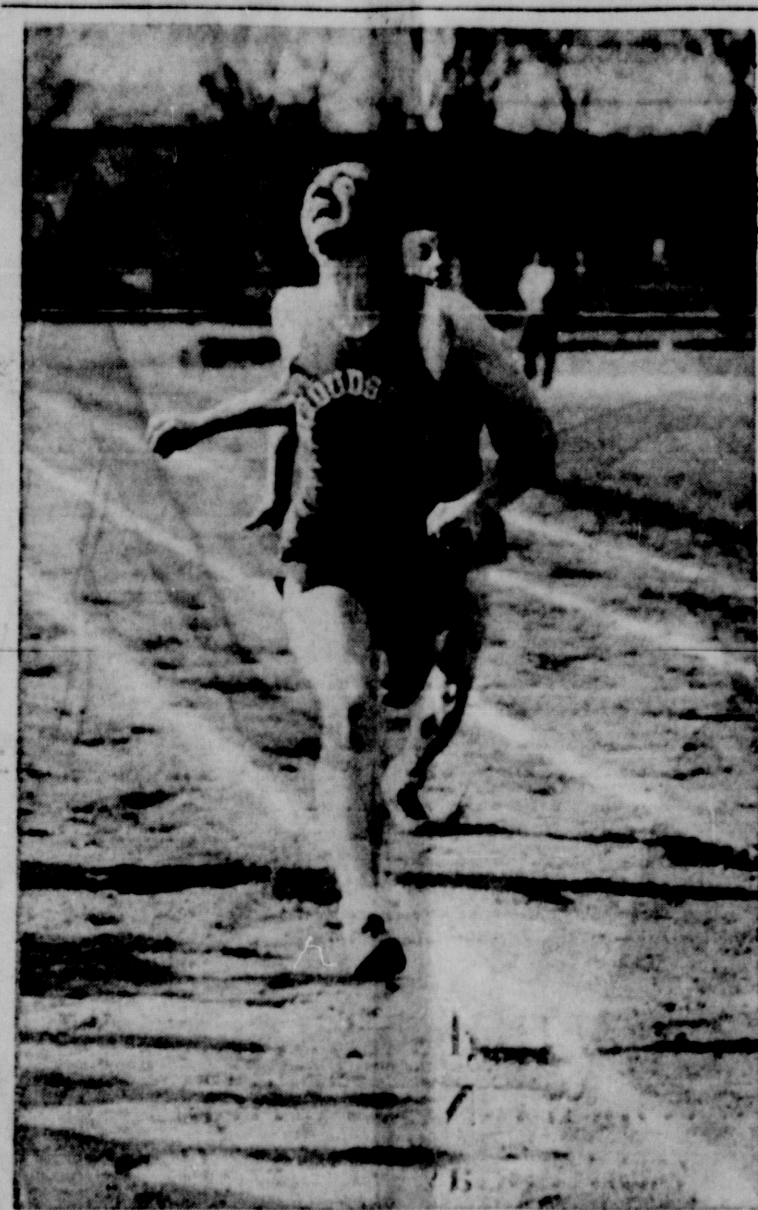

Good Boxer The speedy, dancing Logart is figured to good a boxer for Miceli, a fair boxer himself but dependent on his left hand. Both are expected to weight about 147.

Jablonski Is Making Bid For Year's Comeback Honors

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—A year ago now, Ray Jablonski seemed well on his way to major league oblivion, without a return ticket.

At 29, the burly third baseman-outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds showed all the symptoms of being washed up. The big bat that had driven in more than 100 runs two straight years for the Cardinals was muted, giving off dull clunks instead of ringing hits. His fielding, never spectacular, was deplorable. Jabbo was a very disconsolate and discouraged young man.

Today he not only is back; if he can maintain even a reasonable facsimile of his current pace he will be a stout candidate for comeback-of-the-year honors.

Hitting .384 When last we looked he had played six games, was batting around .384, had hit five home runs, had driven home 11 runs, and, most notable of all, had made only one error.

Possibly the reason for this sudden return to the batting form of two years ago is a decision made by Manager Birdie Tebbets at Tampa this spring.

"I'm going to put him on third base and leave him alone," Birdie said, an intimation that he hadn't been left alone last year.

Not Flashy Fielder As mentioned, Jabbo never was a flashy fielder. But as long as he could rap home those runs he'd win 10 games with his bat for every game he booted away at third base. Or threw away, as he had a shotgun arm which sprayed his throws all over the landscape.

A very sensitive guy, the reasonable Jabbo felt the criticism of his fielding keenly, and this is believed to have preyed upon him so that it affected his hitting.

The sharpness of his decline may be judged by the fact that on July 19, 1954, he was batting .320 for the Cardinals and had driven in 76 runs. On July 19, 1955, he was hitting .334 for the Reds and had batted in only 24 runs, or a little less than half the number he knocked home the first week this year.

Sent To PCL He was sent to San Diego on option last July, and recalled Sept. 13. He boosted his average from .234 to .240 after his return, and this year is starting out as if he'd never been shipped away on the charge of futility.

He had come up to the Cardinals from Rochester in 1953, and that first year he hit 21 home runs and batted in 112. He somehow avoided the sophomore jinx as, in 1954, he had a dozen home runs to his credit and a runs-batted-in mark of 104.

Then came the much-criticized deal which brought him to Cincinnati. The deal was criticized from both directions. Cardinal fans thought their team was giving up too much in swapping Jabbo and Gerry Staley for Frank Smith, and Red fans thought their team shouldn't have sent away such an able relief man as Smith.

Dixie Golfers Take Over In North-South

By Ken Alys PINEHURST, N. C., April 26 (AP)—The South took over the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament today as Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., Hillman Robins of Memphis, Tenn., and Jake Howard Jr. of Augusta, Ga., gained quarter-final victories at the expense of visitors from colder climates. Only Bill Hyndman, Abington, Pa., insurance man, was able to break through the ranks of the solid South.

Easy Time Hyndman had the easiest time of it as he averaged a third-round setback of last year by trouncing massive Dave Smith of Gastonia, N. C., 4 and 3.

Tomorrow, in one of the 18-hole semifinals, the 40-year-old Hyndman will meet a player half his age, two-handicapper Jake Howard, who came back after losing the 16th and 17th holes with bogeys to win the last and edge Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N. Y., 1 up.

Patton Sharp Patton, the 1954 winner, was the day's sharpest performer. He was two under par in a 3 and 2 victory over tenacious Dr. Ted Lenzyk, the Newington, Conn., dentist.

Robbins, one down through 12 holes, won four of the next five holes to close out Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., 3 and 1. Campbell, like Strafaci, has won the North-South twice.

BARTONSVILLE Hotel, first half champions in the Twin-Boro Ladies League, also captured the second half hunting to claim the all-season crown in the circuit.

Ohio State Put On Probation Year By Big 10 Conference

CHICAGO, April 26 (AP)—Ohio State University, winner of the Big 10 football championship for the last two years, was put on probation for one year by the Western Conference today for giving excessive financial assistance to football players.

The principal penalty in the disciplinary action is that Ohio State will not be permitted to represent the Big 10 in the Rose Bowl football game next New Year's Day if the team should qualify by winning the conference title.

Acknowledged Football Coach Woody Hayes was the main target of the statement issued from Big 10 offices in Chicago by Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson.

"Football Coach Woody Hayes has acknowledged assistance to unnamed members of Ohio State football squads from his personal funds in amounts which are said to total approximately $400 annually over a period of five years," Wilson's statement said.

It went on to say Hayes has refused to name the beneficiaries of this assistance.

"It is represented by him to have been unsystematic and unrecorded aid of a purely personal nature as a result of individuals' appeals based on need and hardship, and that where granted the help was usually understood to be a loan," the statement added.

Work Program The document also stated that "a serious irregularity was discovered in the off-campus work program for certain football players."

Wilson said the practice was to make an exception "in work standards" for some players, while the standards were enforced for other Ohio State athletes.

This was especially true, Wilson said, where the State was the employer.

"In effect," the statement said, "these boys were being advanced monthly wages for either two or three months with no enforceable liability to repay in kind or in services."

To Pay Back Wilson said, however, he is satisfied the athletes involved have repaid, or intend to repay over a period time, the wage advances.

No players were declared ineligible or even named in the statement.

However, it did say that "None of the athletes who were beneficiaries of the irregularities in the work program which permitted them to draw pay in advance of performing work therefore shall be presented for eligibility until I have approved satisfactory evidence they have actually repaid fully in services the wages received."

This means, for instance, that such players as Ohio State's All-America Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, as well as others, must satisfy the commissioner that he is all up on his work, if an employer has paid him in advance.

Probation Terms The terms of the probation set forth by Wilson:

1. Ohio State cannot under any circumstances represent the Big 10 in the Rose Bowl football game until probation is lifted.

2. The university must supervise the work program of athletes diligently.

3. Coach Hayes must comply with all rules of the Big 10 regarding financial assistance to athletes.

'Self Help' Pays Off In Taxes

INTERNAL Revenue Service's "Self Help" program of educating the individual taxpayer to prepare his own income tax return has paid off handsomely in the Scranton District, according to Director F. P. Graham.

Graham stated he was well pleased with the program of this filing season. "The public has cooperated admirably in accepting our new methods," he said, and added that the job was done this year at a substantial saving in employees' time which will benefit both the Internal Revenue Service and the taxpayer.

Graham cited the following facts to back up his statements:

This year, 40 per cent fewer taxpayers came into the Scranton District Office for help. About 50 per cent less of the front line enforcement and collection officers' time was spent on the non-productive task of assisting taxpayers in comparison with last year.

More than one million dollars of additional tax assessments over last year's figures resulted from the extra time which was made available for investigative work during the filing period. These same factors helped produce an increase of one-half million dollars in delinquent tax collections for the first three months of this year.

"These benefits are the direct result of an educational program where the public and the media of the press, radio and television gave excellent cooperation," said Graham. Graham further stated, "I am deeply appreciative of this fine over-all cooperation, which enabled us to spend more time at our regular investigative and collection work."

St. John's Brotherhood Makes Plans

GOOD attendance marked the meeting of the Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran Church this week. A report was given by the committee that planned for the purchase of folding chairs. The committee reported that the chairs have been secured and paid in full. The committee, with John A. Kitchen as chairman, was discharged with a vote of thanks.

A moment of silence was held in memory of Frank Sprague, one of the oldest and faithful members of the Brotherhood. He has served as sick visitor for the past few years. Harold Blair was elected to fill the unexpired term.

Discussion
The main topic of discussion was Christian Higher Education, placing stress upon the Lutheran church college, Muhlenberg. The executive committee, along with past president John B. Dunkelberger, was instructed to plan for future programs of the group. Evangelism also was discussed and members were urged to help in this program for the men of the church.

Edward Hardenstine presided and appointed ushers and committees to serve for the month of May.

Outdoors Moving Into Living Room

NATURE, like a 20th century gypsy, is on the move. And, her ultimate destination is your living room and your home itself.

Moving nature into the home, says Mrs. Elsie Doty Sopp, A.I.D., home decorating authority, is just another expression of man's attraction for the outdoors and his affinity with nature.

"The large glass windows in today's homes," Mrs. Sopp observes, "bring the living, green, natural outdoors right into your home. What then is easier to live with than the lush colors and interesting surfaces of nature? Wood walls, floors and furniture mate instinctively with the garden separated only by a glass partition, and stone and brick give striking dimensional effects as natural as any native scene. All this makes decorating schemes easy and practically limitless for any room in the home."

Selection

To create this needed rapport between outdoors and home interior, Mrs. Sopp recommends careful selection of basic materials for the large color areas—walls and floors—with heavy emphasis on wood.

Wall space, she says, on the average, occupies two-thirds of a room's surface area. Natural wood walls, like the striking Douglas fir with its golden colorings or west coast hemlock with its sun-shine tones, are a designer's dream because of the ease of selecting other materials to contrast and blend with these walls of neutral shades.

Wood is easy to live with, Mrs. Sopp remarks, for it never becomes monotonous and best of all, it mellows with age. In today's era of casual living, ease of maintenance is also a factor. After an initial treatment of clear wax, rez, shellac or varnish, only an occasional dusting with a soft cloth is needed to keep these walls in perfect condition.

Fill All Cracks Before Painting

BEFORE repainting a ceiling, all cracks should be carefully filled, then smoothed level with the surface. Small hairline cracks can be filled with spackling compound. As it sets very rapidly, you'll be wise to smooth the surface before the spackling material is quite dry. This lessens the amount of sanding you'll need to do. To apply the filler, you can use a putty knife, an old kitchen knife or even your finger or thumb!

Jefferson Well Known As Chief Executive, Architect

"AMERICA'S LEONARDO da Vinci"—Thomas Jefferson—was not only third President of the United States, but also an able lawyer, statesman, scientist and engineer. He is probably second-best known as an architect, as witness his ingenuity, his skill in designing and building Monticello.

Building was a hobby that gradually grew into an obsession with him, and he incorporated into his home many devices still used two centuries later.

Favorite

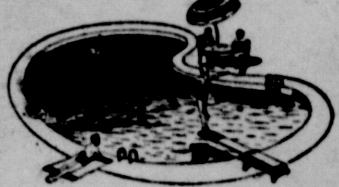

Wood was one of his favorite materials, and from it he fashioned designs for lazy susans in revolving doors, a dumb waiter in the mantel, storm windows, drafting table and many pieces of furniture.

Bedrooms were easily transformed into sitting rooms, for Jefferson recessed the beds into the wall. Even the floors are of wooden mosaic.

Treat With Polish

FOR reaching furniture corners and other spots that might otherwise be inaccessible, use a small paint brush treated with liquid furniture polish.

Gadget Walls Prove To Be Space Savers

GADGET WALLS—more than mere architectural baubles—are finding their rightful niche in today's compact home interiors.

In many of the modern smaller homes, storage space is at a premium. It is difficult to break up different areas of work and play without reducing each room area to the dimensions of a closet. Some of the rooms are box-like without any finishing touches to give them a look of individuality.

Here's where the gadget walls come in.

Separate

To separate dining from living areas, home owners have found that a wall suggestion, such as simple, wide-spaced louvers of west coast hemlock give a spacious airy look while marking the area of use. To separate dining room from kitchen, the peninsula with built-in storage for dishes and linen, will double as a snack bar.

These storage peninsulas can be put to use in almost any part of the house. They are easily adaptable to any size area if constructed of versatile Douglas fir, western red cedar or west coast hemlock.

Cleverly designed shelving around the fireplace, finished in a natural wood or painted, will dress up a stark wall, and furnish a display rack for cherished art objects, plants or books.

The family room is a veritable paradise for these handy installations. Locked gun cabinet, audio wall for television and hi-fidelity equipment, and one wall can become a neat sewing cabinet for mother, with place for patterns, dress form, sewing machine and pull down cutting table. When not in use, the entire unit can be folded away.

Hospital Look Can Be Cured In Kitchens Of Homes

TIRED OF THAT HOSPITAL look about your kitchen? Of the endless expanses of white porcelain? Then you have plenty of sympathizers, and as usual, some enterprising women are doing something about it.

New Door Designs Pace Style Trends

AN INTERESTING new decorative trend has been started in homes built in the past three years, all because of a big industrial battle out west.

Most of the nation's Douglas fir softwood doors are manufactured in Oregon and Washington. Most doors in the past have been so-called panel style. But, in recent years, flush door manufacturers stepped up their output and sales so that they nearly crowded the old panel manufacturers out of business.

Work

Then, the fur started to fly. Douglas fir panel door makers put some of the nation's top designers to work, came up with some of the few major changes in door design in generations.

Now, from these western factories are coming a whole new line of panel doors: some with picture moldings, others with factory-finished color combinations, still others with fabric panels over the fir, some with louvers, and a fine new line of Dutch and restyled entrance doors.

This is all part of the new trend toward more wood, both inside and outside, in home construction.

Low Cost Homes Can Have Beauty

BEAUTY NEED not be sacrificed for economy, even in the most expensive homes of today, says H. V. Simpson, head of West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

"The luxury of fine wood paneling is within the reach of all home owners," Simpson asserts, "and economy grades of Douglas fir, west coast hemlock and western red cedar reflect good taste without prohibitive cost."

"A touch of lovely natural paneling in a corner, a wall or small den in wood lends distinction to any home's interior," Simpson points out. "Interior wood paneling or exterior siding in these smart western softwoods is completely workable and adaptable to any architectural or design style, and any local retail lumber dealer would be happy to pass along tips relative to successful construction."

SO MUCH MORE CONVENIENCE AND PRIVACY WITH UPSTAIRS AND DOWNSTAIRS TELEPHONES

The Regis Greenans now have both an upstairs and a downstairs telephone. That second telephone has made the whole family happier.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenan like the extra convenience best—no more running pell-mell downstairs to answer the phone. Daughter Constance, 20, has the privacy she wanted most of all. And young Brother, 6, is pleased because people can use the upstairs telephone and not interrupt his enjoyment of TV battles between good cowboys and bad.

Wouldn't an upstairs telephone be a wonderful thing for you, too? The cost is 85c a month. And the phone can be in color if you wish. Make your home a modern "two-telephone home" ... today.

Ordering is easy as A, B, C

- Look up the number of the Business Office in the front of your Telephone Directory
- Call any time between 8:30 A.M. and 5 P.M., Monday through Friday

The downstairs telephone in the Greenan household is on Father's living-room desk. With upstairs and downstairs telephones, the Greenans are seldom more than a few steps away when the phone rings.

Here's the attractive modern home of the Regis Greenans in suburban Pittsburgh. As in thousands of similar homes throughout Pennsylvania, there are two telephones—one upstairs and one downstairs.

Anglo-Russian London Communique Holds Many Platitudes, Very Little Encouragement

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
The communique produced by the Anglo-Russian conference in London contains more platitudes and less encouragement than any such document for a long time. The so-called Geneva spirit, which never amounted to anything concrete anyway, is dead. Khrushchev, who apparently look Bulgarian with him to London as a mere token display of "collective" government in Russia, learned what he should have known before. The Anglo-American alliance is not an arrangement of expediency, deliberately designed to fit this or that need of the two nations. It is a fact—a way of life. It persists as a natural, despite recurring minor conflicts. As all of Russia's efforts have failed to dent this situation, so Khrushchev failed.

Failure Develops
As his failure developed, he grew irritated. He used Russia's atomic strength to make threats. He was truculent with British Socialists who took him at his word that Russia wanted to cooperate with them, and asked his aid in freeing Socialists imprisoned in the Russian satellite. What happened to Socialists in other countries was no concern of his, he said, thereby undercutting his own international campaign to attain control of national governments through Communist-Socialist coalitions.

The words of the communique about the mutual desire of Russia and Britain for an end to the arms race and freedom from fear of atomic war can only be read against the background of Khrushchev's atomic threats. Russia, he said, soon will have a guided atomic missile capable of striking anywhere in the world.

Such threats have always been used by Russia in an effort to blackmail Western Europe out of its alliance with the United States. Khrushchev left a strong suspicion in London that, when the weapon actually exists, its existence will be used for the same purpose.

Harold Stassen, who happened to be in London during the Russian visit for disarmament talks at a lower level, can only conduct himself against this overriding background. He is familiar with the uses to which other nations put America's sincere efforts to reduce naval armaments after World War I.

What would Europe reply if, after 10 years of disarmament and atomic controls, Russia should back a demand for dissolution of NATO with an announcement that she still had nuclear missiles, just as Hitler revealed his armies despite the Versailles treaty?

Any Beauty Has Chance To Triumph

ANY ENTRY is eligible to win the Miss Pocono Mountains beauty contest to be sponsored by the East Stroudsburg Exchange Club on Saturday, May 19.

Take the story of Miss America for example. Miss Sharon Kay Ritchie of Denver, Colorado, is Miss America of 1956. Nineteen year old Sharon had just finished her freshman year at Colorado's Women's College last June when she was sponsored by her school in the Miss Colorado Scholarship Pageant, an event conducted by the Denver Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Not only was Sharon the reigning beauty of her College Campus but she was President of the Freshman Class and recipient of the Laurice Carlen Award for the most outstanding freshman. In addition, Sharon was a Sunday School Teacher; a member for five years of the Christian Youth Fellowship as well as a member of the First Christian Denomination.

Sharon became Miss Colorado of 1955 and the winner of $1,000 scholarship at her state pageant. In Atlantic City in September she became Colorado's first Miss America and added another $5,000 to her scholarship awards.

Open Book

Sharon's life since last September has been an open book to all America. She has travelled the length and breadth of our land as well as abroad and made thousands of new friends and boosters, who will be wishing her every success throughout a long, happy and prosperous life.

Miss America 1954 was Evelyn Ay of Ephrata, Pa., and the year following, Miss Pennsylvania was one of the runners-up in the national finals.

In sponsoring the Miss Pocono Mountains pageant, East Stroudsburg Exchange Club is offering every talented girl in the Poconos the same opportunity that each of these girls mentioned above had, and the winner of the local pageant will represent the Poconos when she vies for the title of Miss

Sharon Kay Ritchie

Pennsylvania 1956 in the state finals in July of this year.

Resort owners and civic clubs throughout this area are invited to enter a contestant in the Miss Pocono Mountains contest. Rules and Regulations with entry blanks may be had by contacting Mrs. Robert Miller, 906 Main St., Stroudsburg, director of the contest which will be staged in the Auditorium of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Entry blanks may also be obtained by contacting Mr. Elwood Huffman, president of the Exchange Club; Ralph Burrows, principal of the East Stroudsburg High School, or Dr. W. Grady Moore, of State Teachers College.

IT'S TORQUE THAT MAKES THE WHEELS GO 'ROUND!

... And the High-Torque Output of Oldsmobile's Famous Rocket Engine Is Instantly Translated into Outstanding Performance at the Rear Wheels!

LET'S TALK TORQUE! In plain language, torque is "twist" — like turning a door knob. It's the force that makes the wheels go 'round.

So it follows... the more torque your engine has, the more go power your car has... the more getaway at the light... the more action on the open road!

That's why, when it comes to power, there's nothing like Oldsmobile's Rocket T-350 Engine — because the Rocket is torque TNT! Figures prove it: 350 pound-feet at 2800 rpm (340 pound-feet at 2400 rpm in '68" models).

OLDS CHASSIS IS ENGINEERED TO HANDLE HIGHER TORQUE!

Oldsmobile has the chassis to take Rocket torque... a skillfully engineered Oldsmobile chassis with an extra-sturdy, dynamically balanced drive shaft, and an extra-rigid frame that resists twisting and weaving.

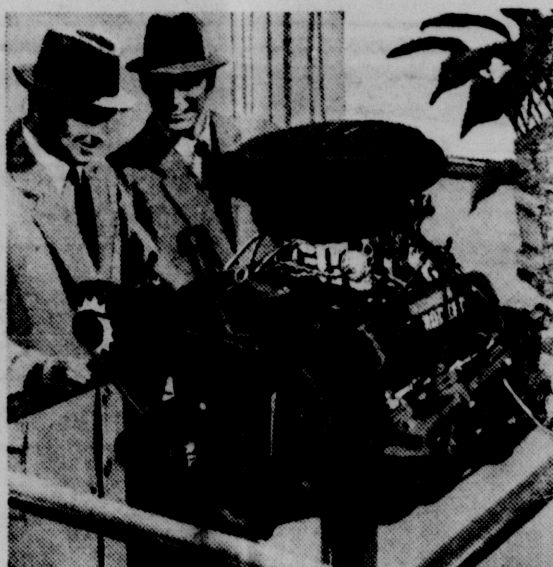

What's more, the Rocket's got horsepower

— to spare! — And with Oldsmobile, it's high, usable horsepower... a by-product of engine design aimed straight at the wheels — design that translates horsepower into terrific torque at normal engine rpm's.

TOP TORQUE MEANS TIP-TOP PERFORMANCE!

The result is higher torque — silken, responsive Rocket action. Touch the accelerator, ever so gently, you "go"... and we do mean "GO!" You thrill to smoother, swifter bursts of power in medium speed ranges — tip-top performance for everyday use — spectacular performance when you need it... when you want it.

Any way you look at it, you can't top the Rocket for thrills for the money — or for top return when it's time to trade. Stop by soon. Rocket 'round the block... or around the town if you like!

OLDSMOBILE'S ROCKET — a double winner in 1956 Mobilgas Economy Run. Get the feel of top horsepower, top torque in the engine that's an economy champion, too!
